

Artofinjection

Fullday Course (09:00 - 16:30)

Content:

Injection therapy is significantly more than technology and anatomy. I have chosen the name Artofinjection, because it best describes what I intend. In order to develop your skills in this area requires trust, presence and awareness of what you are doing. The focus and readiness to cope with any complications, and a certain amount of compassion for the patient are also important ingredients. In most countries, doctors have the exclusive right to this kind of injections to treat physical pain syndrome. During this course we go through the most common injection forms in primary care. We will also practice how we find our inner peace, our trust and our presence in the practice of this art form. This course is unique in the world. We practice together with real syringes and small needles. All for daring to evolve and become skillful, as a doctor or physiotherapist.

This is an interactive course. We practice on each other. Please come in workout clothes. It will be very much "hands on".
